

Response to Sheriff's challenge is projected to save over 30% on his County's inmate medical care expenses

A North Texas County Sheriff challenged Indigent Healthcare Solutions (IHS) to provide a solution that would reduce inmate medical care costs compared with the County's already discounted hospital contract. The County randomly selected five previously paid inmate medical bills for IHS's review.

A payout summary prepared by IHS for the five inmates' medical bills showed there would have been a $7,000-plus cost savings by the County had those bills been paid at the indigent rates allowed by the State.

After learning about the savings potential from the Sheriff and IHS, the County Commissioners Court hired IHS to install its software.

In less than one month, the savings realized by paying the County's inmate medical care expenses at indigent rates paid for more than an entire year of IHS software services.
